Dear President Landsbergis:

We have been following the story of your country's current struggle for independence with great interest.

Despite official posturing from our leaders in Washington regarding your stand-off with the Soviets, many Americans would like to see our government do more to help your cause; we hope the efforts of you and your countrymen will prevail.

We are particularly impressed by your choice of a peaceful strategy for reaching your goal. Your remarks that "common sense and the seed of goodness must win" are music to the ears of a war-weary world. You are receiving very favorable reportage from American radio, TV and newspapers. We wish you and your countrymen every success.

Respectfully yours,
